Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1, applicant has not claimed the combination of the sheath with the inner container, and yet requires the sheath to be deep enough so that only the appendage can enter the container. The depth of the sheath is not determinable when the depth of the container has not been defined. By requiring the container that has not been claimed to fit only a hand or foot does not obviate the indefinite rejection. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1 is finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Evans (Des.258,696) or Sudduth (Des. 328,160). The stretchable liner is capable of covering an inner portion of a container. The liner is waterproof as conventionally known.

4. Claim 1 is finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Guiste (US 6,085,367). Guiste discloses a disposable waterproof sheath that is deep enough to accommodate a person's appendages. The liner has bath oil and beads.

Art Unit: 3728

5. Claim 1 is finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bleicher (US 5,465,436). Bleicher discloses a disposable waterproof sheath that is deep enough to accommodate a person's appendages. The liner is attached to the inner.

Response to Arguments

6. In response to applicant's argument that none of the references teaches a liner for a footbath or handbath, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Once again, applicant has not distinguished the liner of the instant invention with any liner that can accommodate a foot or a hand. Any of the references cited easily accommodate only the foot or hand of a person. While applicant insists that his inventive liner is not any inner container liner, applicant cannot distinguish the prior art liner from the instant liner merely by the recitation in the functional use of the liner. There is no apparent patentability from this claim limitation since the structural limitation does not overcome the prior art and the prior art can perform the intended use.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
